Proposed mutual terms

Each party may share confidential commercial or technical information solely for the stated evaluation purpose. Each recipient will use reasonable care, restrict use to that purpose and share only with personnel or advisers who need it and are bound to confidentiality.

Obligations exclude information lawfully known beforehand, independently developed, lawfully received elsewhere, or made public without breach. Disclosure required by law remains permitted; provide lawful notice and disclose only what is required.

On request, return or delete information, allowing legally required archival copies under continuing confidentiality. Disclosure transfers no intellectual property rights and creates no purchase obligation. Separately identify trade secrets requiring longer protection.

This draft takes effect only when both identified legal entities agree the scope and remaining terms and sign through authorized representatives. Existing signed project terms prevail over this discussion sheet.
